Cards of Thanks

I want to express my appreciation for the many ways I was remembered during my stay in the hospital and since my return home. For the flowers, cards, visits, prayers, and especially for the fast efficient way Dr. Larry Smith and the Appomattox County Rescue Squad responded to my need. God bless you.

Wilson Guill 12-13-1tc

We would like to thank all the friends, neighbors and relatives for their many acts of kindness shown to our mother during her illness and at the time of her death. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

The Children of Eugenia Womack Evans 12-13-1tp

Thank you so much, friends, family, and co-workers for remembering me while I was in the Virginia Baptist Hospital and since I've returned home. The visits, cards, gifts, flowers, phone calls and especially your prayer support are a constant reminder of your love. May God richly bless you. Frances H. Paulette 12-13-1t

Clothing Care ALERT!

LIFE IN THE OLD RAGS YET?

Are you getting the years you deserve from your clothes? With clothing costs rising, how long can you expect to "hold off" before you need to replace items in your wardrobe? How many years of service should you expect before a garment has "had it"?

The International Fabricare Institute (IFI), the global association of launderers and drycleaners, has estimated the life expectancy for clothing, taking into consideration normal fabric wear and tear as well as changes in fashion.

Five years generally is the maximum time a fabric garment can be expected to be fully useful—meaning attractive, colorful, structurally sound and warm. Beyond that, thank quality workmanship and skillful maintenance for any added years of service you receive. A fine wool shirt clocking 10 or 12 years of wear, or a dress coat that sees many seasons without showing signs of stress, can happen. Appreciate the phenomenon. Realize that you own a rarity.

More common are the following life expectancies: a leather jacket or coat—five years; a basic evening gown—five years; a fur scarf—five years.

A man's or women's cloth jacket can be expected to last four years; men's wool and wool blend slacks—four years (women's are expected to last only two years); a sport coat—four years if it is wool or wool blend, otherwise, two; winter weight suits—four years (two to three years if summer weight); women's suits—three to four years.

Fabric rainwear should last three years; sweaters—three years; blouses—two to three years; afternoon and street dresses—two to three years; heavy robes—three years.

Expect two to three years from a shirt; skirts—two years.

Children's wear understandably has the shortest life span. Coats, dresses, snowsuits and little boys' suits are listed at a two-year maximum.

These wear periods are the time span within which you can expect an outfit to look its best.

Beyond those years, you can't be as sure. The fabrics may be less firm, won't look as sharp. Clothes will soil easier. You can't depend upon them to be party perfect.

Cherish and care for them still because they probably will remain the backbone of your wardrobe, supporting the planned periodic new additions that make you feel fashion secure.

SAFETY TIPS FOR SNOW THROWERS

You can clear a path in the snow safely and easily by following these tested tips from the experts at the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute:

1. Read the owner's manual thoroughly and follow the safety practices it describes. Make sure everyone in your family who will operate the equipment reads and understands the owner's manual.

2. Always avoid contact with moving parts. Shut off the motor before attempting any maintenance. On snow throwers don't put anything into the discharge chute until both the auger and the blower fan located inside have completely stopped.

3. Be careful on slopes. On riding throwers always drive up and down, never across hillsides. On walk-behind throwers work across the face of a slope, never up and down.

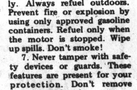
4. Never carry passengers.

5. Inspect your work area carefully. Remove objects which may be thrown, and keep bystanders and pets out of the area. Thrown objects can cause injury and property damage to you or anyone nearby.

6. Handle gasoline carefully. Always refuel outdoors. Prevent fire or explosion by using only approved gasoline containers. Refuel only when the motor is stopped. Wipe up spills. Don't smoke!

7. Never tamper with safety devices or guards. These features are present for your protection. Don't remove them—use them!

Following these tips can help you help yourself to a troublefree winter and hazardless holidays at home.



Because its tentacles seem to resemble the snakelike hair of Medusa in Greek mythology, the jellyfish has the scientific name medusae.
